THE PRESIDENT'S BIRTHDAY
STRIKE AT HOOVER DAM
THINGS HAPPENING.
LOW WATER IN TWO PLACES.

—By Arthur Brisbane—
(Copyright 1930 By King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

Yesterday President Hoover celebrated his 57th birthday. Everybody in the country wishes him many happy returns, with less backbreaking responsibility and worry, greater appreciation on the part of those to whose service he devotes his time and energy.

Fortunately, he is an unusually strong man, as he needs to be, with the load that he inherited from his fortunate predecessor, Calvin Coolidge.

It is one thing to inherit a magnificent structure of prosperity, another to have it tumble around your ears the moment you enter the White House, and by no act of your own.

However, President Hoover was brought up in the school of hard knocks. He will find his way out.

News from the Hoover dam strike will attract the close attention of President Hoover, the real "boss" of the works. He will want to know whether contractors that bid in competition with other contractors, assuming that the old high water rates would prevail, are now taking advantage of the depression to cut wages.

They refuse a request of $5 a day coming from men who work in temperatures as high as 119, and demand that carpenters work for less than $6 a day. They will hear something energetic from the president of the United States, through whom they get their money.

Bidding on a contract, before depression, on a basis that would allow a profit of so many millions, and carrying out that contract now in the depression, squeezing labor to get a few more millions of profit, will not appeal to the President. All wage questions involved should be submitted to arbitration, with the President in control of it. President Hoover will want to know particularly about the off-hand discharge of 700 men who had used their last dollar to go to work on the dam project and will remind somebody that human life and hope, and a workingman's demand for justice, are at least as important as contractors' profits.

Whenever it rains, it pours, no matter what the kind of rain. If one price drops, another drops. A revolt breaks out in South American countries, then one must be quelled in Havana, fortunately with very few killed.

Stalin, in Russia, is discovering that human nature is human nature, even when you baptize it with Karl Marx theories. He finds it necessary to give orders to discipline Russian labor, conferring greater authority on factory managers, in short, compelling workers to use their brains.

Workers do not like to do that. In this country, we usually think of a Russian as one that likes to tuck his trousers in his boot tops, sip his vodka at leisure and dance with his boots on. How long Russia's population will stand being driven with the ferocious energy of revolution and the five-year plan remains to be seen. They are not.

CALL OFF PLANS FOR BOND ISSUE; WILL BUY POWER

Lisbon Council Rescinds Action On $192,000 Vote Proposal

RENEWS CONTRACT WITH OHIO-EDISON

Cut In Street Lighting, Domestic Rates Is Promised

LISBON, Aug. 11.—A proposed $192,000 bond issue, which was to have been submitted to electors here at the November election for the purpose of providing funds for the construction of a municipal electric power and lighting system, as well as a water works plant, was voted down at a special meeting of village council Monday night.

Council not only rescinded its action on the plan proposal but also agreed to a five-year contract with the Ohio-Edison company for its supply current for street lighting and domestic use.

Under terms of the new contract, the village will pay the Ohio-Edison company $5,500 a year for current used in street lighting.

The former rate was $7,070 annually, or $1,570 more than the new figure.

Rates on electricity used by domestic consumers also will be lowered, according to the agreement with the power company.

The agreement with the Ohio-Edison company comes as an aftermath of council's survey of costs and conditions in connection with the construction of a municipally owned power plant.

Judge Holds Couple To Five-Day Clause

LISBON, Aug. 11.—The first time the five-day clause in new marriage license law has not been waived when application for a marriage license was made, was when Mathew Tafe, 50, of Sebring and Rose Householder, 26, of Salem, a divorcee and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Ross, filed their application.

Probate Judge Lodge Riddle determined not to waive the five day clause in this instance. The license will be issued when applied for at the end of five days.

WORK FINISHED ON COUNTY ROAD

Pouring of Concrete On New Highway Started By H. M. Bates

LISBON, Aug. 11.—The last concrete has been poured on that section of the Lincoln highway, south from Madison Presbyterian church to Apples Corners, and the contractor, Harry M. Bates of Steubenville, has re-located equipment at the intersection of the St. Clair-Madison township line, from where concrete will be poured northward to Apples Corners.

First section of this new road was finished last Saturday, and the last concrete on this project is expected to be poured by Aug. 22. Terms are now being made on the new section of the Wellsville-Salineville road, and this work should be finished by Saturday. The Lincoln highway in Madison township will be open to full traffic by Sept. 12.

The J. E. Fondriest Co., of Canton, has been awarded the contract for the construction of a new steel beam concrete bridge on the Lisbon-Elkton road just east of the corporation line on its bid of $13,848.51. Work on this project is expected to begin next week.

LINDY AND WIFE FOGBOUND, FAIL TO REACH NOME

Land Monoplane Along North Coast of Seward Peninsula

(By Associated Press)

NOME, ALASKA, Aug. 11.—Coming to earth about 75 miles short of their immediate destination, Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh landed their pontooned monoplane along the north coast of the Seward peninsula at 11 o'clock last night (5 a. m., today in Salem, and awaited full daylight to proceed to Nome.

Beginning the second half of their 7,000 mile vacation air trip from Washington to the Orient, the flying couple left Point Barrow at 11:53 o'clock, (Salem time) last night for a 523 mile hop to Nome. A protracted rain and other unfavorable conditions had held them at Point Barrow for three days and two nights. They left as soon as weather reports indicated a clearing coast line.

The exact spot where the plane landed was not mentioned in messages, but it was believed to be somewhere along the Kotzebue Sound.

Asks For Flares

About an hour after leaving Point Barrow Mrs. Lindbergh radioed that all was "o.k." Later she requested that bonfires and flares be made ready to aid in landing here.

This message, which indicated they had flown about 390 miles of the route approximately an hour

"Busy Bee" Cause Of Truck's Crash; Loss Hits $2,500

A bee, an uninvited passenger in the cab of a truck driven by A. R. White of Pittsburgh, caused a loss estimated at $2,500 when White lost control of the vehicle and it veered off into the soft shoulder of the East Palestine-Unity rd Monday afternoon.

White tried to chase the bee from the cab. The truck hit the soft dirt; turned over, caught fire and the vehicle and its load of mixed merchandise were practically destroyed.

Hope For Cramer Is Waning; Tegucigalpa Flier Is Missing

BULLETIN

(By Associated Press)
NORFOLK, VA., Aug. 11.—Captain Lisandro Garay, Honduran flier, who hopped off Sunday afternoon on a non-stop flight from Brooklyn to Tegucigalpa, Honduras, was picked up this morning at 10 o'clock by the steamship Cicco, 20 miles east of Cape Lookout, it was stated in a message received at the local coast guard office.

COPENHAGEN, Denmark, Aug. 11.—Parker Cramer, American aviator, and his radio operator, lost since Sunday on a flight between the Shetland Islands and Copenhagen, still were missing today and hoped he would make a land test. Airport mechanics placed 360 gallons of gasoline in his monoplane, and accompanied by Acosta, he rolled away.

Field officials said Acosta got out of the plane at the edge of the field, and the plane took to the air and soon was out of sight. That was at 3:30 p. m., Sunday.

Fliers said he had enough fuel to last him 30 hours, which was up at 9:30 p. m., Monday. He should have reached the Honduran capital by 6 o'clock last night.

S. Parades, Honduran consul-general at New York, said the flier would receive a court martial if he landed at Honduras, because of a military escapade.

It was revealed here that Laray had neither a flying license or state department permit to make such a flight.

Dr. James H. Kimball, government meteorologist said a 50-mile headwind would hamper the flier throughout the entire journey.

BODIES OF FOUR, BELIEVED SLAIN, FOUND IN AUTO

Two Cleveland Girls, Two Ypsilanti Youths Are Victims

LEFT HOME MONDAY TO ATTEND DANCE

Police Think Car Was Set Afire After Quartet Was Killed

(By Associated Press)

ANN ARBOR, Mich., Aug. 11.—Bodies of four persons, all believed to have been slain, were found burned in an automobile on the road marking the Wayne-Washtenaw county line near Willis early today. The victims were tentatively identified as: Thomas Wheatley, 16, of near Denton; Harry Lore, also about 16, of Ypsilanti; Vivian Gould and Anna Harris.

Miss Gould and Miss Harris, both of Cleveland, were visiting at the Lore home in Ypsilanti.

Identifies Bodies

The bodies were identified by Harry Wheatley, father of Thomas, who recognized two keys found in the car, as belonging to his son. He also identified a belt buckle worn by Lore.

The car belonged to Mr. Wheatley.

The boys left home Monday night to attend a dance in Ypsilanti, Wheatley said. It was not determined where they had met the two girls.

Sheriff Jacob B. Andres and Coroner Edwin C. Ganzhorn of Washtenaw county and state police said they believed the young people were slain and then the automobile set afire.

The officers were working on a theory that the young people were victims of robbers.

Farmer Discovers Car

A farmer discovered the automobile. The four bodies were in the rear seat. The officers said their position indicated they were placed there after the victims were either killed or mortally wounded.

A farmer living near the scene reported hearing an automobile speed past his home a half hour before the bodies were found. Deputies said that automobile tire tracks indicated a second automobile had been driven to the scene.

Nautilus, Crippled, Drifting In Arctic

TROMSOE, NORWAY, Aug. 11.—The submarine Nautilus, in which Sir Hubert Wilkins set out June 3 to reach the North Pole under the ice, today was reported adrift in the Arctic seas with engine trouble.

The report said the mechanical difficulty was of a nature which could not be repaired by the crew.

The trouble developed soon after the submarine left Tromsø yesterday for Spitzbergen.

There was no way of knowing here what the trouble was, but the crew was reported to have worked all night attempting repairs. As the Nautilus has no anchor suitable for use in these waters she drifted with the current while the crew worked.

BLISS COMPANY BUILDS GIANT ROLLING MILL

Goes to U. S. Steel Corp.; Pressure Will Reach 15,000,000 Pounds

The E. W. Bliss company today announced completion for the United States Steel Corporation of the most powerful cold rolling mill ever built for the manufacture of strip tin plate. Some of the castings in this mill weigh in excess of 80 tons each. The pressure exerted by the mill is approximately 15,000,000 pounds force.

Use Patented Levers

While its enormous capacity and weight are noteworthy features, the automatic patented devices used on the mill are of great engineering and scientific interest.

The manufacture of tin plate in strip form has been receiving the attention of the steel industry for the last three years, and it is believed that this installation will far surpass any existing plant.

After this mill has been put into operation, it is believed by many engineers who have given this subject careful study, that it will introduce a new epoch in the manufacture of tin plate, and go a great way toward revolutionizing the industry.

Cold Rolling Specialty

The E. W. Bliss company, while building all kinds of hot and cold rolling mills, has particularly specialized on the cold rolling industry. They have installations in practically all the large steel companies in this country, and many of the large plants abroad.

Their designs are recognized as the most modern, and are protected by many patents which are practically indispensable to a modern installation.

Ransack Apartment; Flee With $50,000

CHICAGO, Aug. 11.—Burglars ransacked the apartment of Carroll E. Gray, Jr., president of the Central Republic company, the investment affiliate of the Central Republic Bank and Trust company, early today, escaping with jewelry valued at between $30,000 and $50,000.

The home was deserted at the time. Gray is in New York City on business, the servants were at the Gray's Wisconsin summer home.

The rifled condition of the apartment was discovered by Mrs. Gray and her daughter, Jane, 15, when they returned to it after an evening at the theater.

Value of the jewelry was placed by Mrs. Gray, who said that among the pieces taken were two diamond rings valued at $15,000 each.

Several expensive fur coats and other valuables were handed but not taken by the burglars, she said.

Two Ohio Districts Nominate To Fill Congress Places

Two Ohio districts held special primaries today to nominate candidates for congressional vacancies caused by death. The general election will be held in November.

In addition, numerous Ohio municipalities held primaries to nominate candidates for mayor or other local offices.

The main interest in the primaries was in the Cincinnati district where the vacancy was caused by the death several months ago of Speaker of the House Nicholas Longworth, Republican. Both of the candidates to succeed him are advocates of prohibition.

The assured outcome of the Cincinnati vote was the nomination of State Senator David Lorbach, Democrat, and John B. Hollister, Republican.

In the 20th district, Cleveland candidates were to be chosen to succeed the late Congressman Charles A. Mooney, a Democrat. Leaders of both parties anticipated the final winner of the race would be Municipal Judge Martin L. Sweeney, also a Democrat.

BALLOT CHIEF STARTS PROBE

Brown sends Aids to Steubenville; Irregularities Charged

COLUMBUS, Aug. 11.—Charges of widespread irregularities in the municipal election at Steubenville today caused Secretary of State Clarence J. Brown to rush state election officials into that city. The charges were lodged by officials of Steubenville and Jefferson county.

The following heads of the state election department were ordered to proceed to Steubenville at once: George M. Messner, chief of the department; James A. Walker, chief inspector, and Harold E. Culbert, and Arch Hamilton, inspectors.

Brown said his information was that a large number of registered voters in the city were prevented from casting ballots when their registration cards could not be found at the various voting districts.

POLICE ARREST TWO

Excitement Marks Steubenville Voting; Deputies Named

STEUBENVILLE, O., Aug. 11.—Two men were arrested here today as excitement over the municipal election prevailed throughout the city, when Sheriff William Yost stationed 50 special deputy sheriffs at the various voting booths.

One of those arrested, Lee Morelli, 28, son of a local political leader, was charged with carrying concealed weapons. Morelli was one of Sheriff Yost's special deputies and was arrested by three city policemen. He was released under $500 bond. The other man, whose name was withheld by police, was charged with interfering with a deputy.

City authorities disarmed another of Yost's deputies but made no arrest.

Warrants were issued last week for 22 persons secretly indicted by the county grand jury in connection with an alleged registration fraud in July.

232 FOURTH WARD ELECTORS AT POLLS

More Women Are Marking Ballots, Precinct Chiefs Assert

The possibility that a new record for municipal primary elections would be created was entertained by election officials today as a total of 658 electors, attracted by contests on both Republican and Democratic tickets, visited the city's 13 polls up until noon.

The noon vote was almost 250 greater than that cast up until the same hour in the 1929 primaries when the day's total vote set the present record of 2,051. A total of 492 ballots were cast at noon on August 13, that year.

Precinct judges here were confident that if the present trend is maintained, the day's vote will go well over the 2,000 mark.

Women At Polls

Polls were opened at 6:30 a. m. but few electors cast ballots until 10 a. m. after which a steady line of voters visited precincts, workers stated. More women are believed to have visited polls today than at any previous election in the city's history, they asserted.

Charles A. Cavanaugh, county election board member, made regular visits to polling places to supervise election activities and familiarize workers with duties. Few complexities arose from changes in precinct boundaries, he said.

Republican voters outnumbered Democrats almost ten to one, members of the latter party casting only 64 out of the noonday total of 658 votes. The fourth ward with its five precincts led other voting districts with 322 votes with the first ward, where 195 ballots, were cast in three precincts, second.

Light Vote In 2-C

The lightest vote in the city was cast in Precinct C of the Second ward, only 17 Republicans and two Democrats being listed at noon.

A three-way contest for the Republican nomination as mayor, and contests involving two candidates for Democratic mayor and Republican auditor and president of council were magnets drawing voters to polls.

Mayor J. M. Davidson, seeking his second term, is opposed by H. W. Kesselmeier and George Bricker on the Republican ticket while George McArthur and L. C. Loschky are Democratic mayoralty candidates.

City Solicitor Cecil K. Scott, aspiring to a fourth term, is involved in a brisk battle with C. G. McCorkhill and L. B. Harris.

TRUCKS AND BUSES

The Ohio public utilities commission has denied a motor truck line operating between Akron and Chicago a certificate to do interstate business. This may amount to producing a hornet's nest, if the potential possibilities of the decision are developed.

The commission's opinion states that trucks and buses utilize too much space on the state's roads, to the detriment of private car owners. "There has been a growing feeling that the highways of Ohio have been unduly burdened by trucks and buses in commercial business," the commission says. It is established that a state may prescribe regulations necessary for public safety and order in respect to the operation of motor vehicles, whether they are moving in intrastate or interstate commerce. The commission's decision is a popular one with the public.

"It is time the commission must recognize the losses that are facing the established railroads, and express its feeling that the heavier freight, particularly in the longer hauls, should not be further diverted from the rails," is another important part of the opinion. The commission has no legal ability to act on this aspect of competition from trucks, but it can place itself on record as opposed to it.

In the buck case, which was the high water mark of judicial interference with state regulation of interstate bus traffic, the United States supreme court denied the right of state commissions to regulate carriers operating in interstate commerce. Since then, however, state power has been upheld in several important cases, of them, the case of Clark versus poor, concerning Ohio. In that instance, the Buck case was set aside and state rights to regulate interstate commerce affirmed. The result of that judicial opinion seems to be teetering, sometimes inclining to state regulation, other times inclining to federal regulation. An appeal from the commission's decision concerning the Akron to Chicago truck line may be the impetus that will force the issues one way or the other.

Public opinion, created by personal experiences on highways, will shave judicial decisions in all such cases eventually. Already, such statements as the following, made by Justice Brandeis, upholding Ohio's law taxing motor transportation companies on its roads, reflecting this opinion:

"The highways are public property. Users of them, although engaged exclusively in interstate commerce, may be required to contribute to their cost and upkeep. Common carriers for hire, who make the highways their place of business, may properly be charged an extra tax for such use."

Another significant statement from the supreme bench reads: "With the increase in number and size of the vehicles used upon a highway, both the danger and the wear and tear grow. To exclude unnecessary vehicles—particularly the large ones commonly used by carriers for hire—promotes both safety and economy. State regulation of that character is valid even as applied to interstate commerce in the absence of regulation by congress which deals specifically with the subject."

What Others Say

ALFALFA BILL AND DOLLAR OIL

Gov. Alfalfa Bill Murray, of Oklahoma, gets into the oil controversy and the headlines through an executive order closing all the prorated oil wells in the state. In addition to issuing the order he establishes martial law about every well and posts national guardsmen to see that the order is enforced.

Alfalfa Bill adopts these extreme measures because of the low price of crude oil and his determination that Oklahoma producers receive a dollar a barrel for their product. The current price is about half that figure, but the Oklahoma wells are to remain closed until the price reaches a dollar, if the governor has his way.

His program is similar in some respects to that adopted by the farm board two years ago with respect to wheat. But instead of government buying at a fair price Murray directs curtailed production, which is the answer probably to the low price of wheat and oil alike.

But curtailment in a single state, important as Oklahoma is in oil production, will hardly correct the price situation of which producers everywhere complain, or bring the price back to one dollar a barrel.

Curtailed production with proration is widely accepted as the proper approach to the oil problem, but with producers in some centers unwilling to prorate, and others disinclined to do so or to curtail production because of possible violation of the Sherman act, the prospect is not bright for better prices.

Alfalfa Bill Murray's scheme will go down with many half-baked proposals offered in the last two years to solve economic problems. Like the rest it will end in failure. The federal courts are likely to find it out of bounds at an early date. The Oklahoma courts, he says, "can't do a thing," for Alfalfa Bill is governor and is a law unto himself — Cleveland Plain Dealer.

DEAUVILLE, Aug. 11—One of those fiercely put-putting motor boats scooted us from Havre across the harbor to Deauville this morning in 45 minutes. By auto it is 50 miles. Most of the way it was a choking fog but finally we emerged into a fairyland vista of white cliffs, silver sand and rose clad villas.

Deauville is a Normandy coast resort where the big idea is to be seen. A day is a succession of horseback riding, tennis, golf, bathing, lunching al fresco, polo, pigeon shooting and gambling at the casino at night. It has the "prop" look of a motion picture.

At the moment the season is in full swing and the beach and promenade are rainbowish with bathing costumes and pajamas. Le Toquet has lured many of Deauville's faithful and the rivalry between them is keen. As a result rate cutting at hotels is giving the sucker a slight break.

Having left Havre at 6:45 a. m. without breakfast we went directly to the Normandy Hotel, an autumnal brown structure flaming with awnings, for a bite. At a nearby table sat two young men in peach-toned pajamas. I wondered if they had just got up or were just going to bed.

While waiting for the food—and I think the waiter slipped off to Paris for it—I was almost tempted to dig out the red and yellow pajamas I picked up at a Galerie Lafayette sale, send them over to the young sprigs with a note: "Match these, Messieurs!"

The irritation of a long wait for breakfast vanished with its arrival. It was the best I ever ate on the continent and not only that I was introduced socially to a new miniature post hole digger that brought out the mellow in delicious cubes.

The mellow itself was smuggled in a mountain of ice in a silver dish and wreathed with a dewy garland of vari-colored rose buds. With the eggs came a cup in frosted Lalique and a silver gadget for snipping off egg ends so one might eat them out of the shell.

One sees on the streets of Deauville more jewelry than may be seen in the windows of the jewelry establishments along the entire rue de la Paix. Peggy Joyce here, fully be-diamonded, would be just another tourist. I saw pendants that, as Will Hogg might say, "would stoop a cow." And along La Plage Fleurie was a lady in a snip of a bathing suit whose arms were covered to elbows in jeweled bracelets.

During a before luncheon motor spin, I saw a polo player with a full crop of whiskers. He was indulging morning practice and the way his foliage was buzzing in the breeze was comical, no end. Also what-ho! And frightfully jolly.

Signing a hotel register in France requires more than name and home city. They give you a slip upon which you must tell all—age, birthplace, date of birth, occupation, passport number, how long you expect to remain etc., etc. A transcript goes to the Prefect of Police, Deauville, because of its pleasure loving patronage, is a place for gentlemen of flexible morals and ladies of easy virtues. Consequently register blanks are remaining only until midnight when the Prefect receives the slips. I decided to give him a surprise. After occupation I put: "American gangster." Then I signed "Courtney Ryle Cooper and a strange woman—Idaho Springs, Colorado"—which will be handy for the real Coopers when they arrive later this season.

The Casino in the moonlight with clipped hedges, flower starred terraces and gleaming white walks is an enticing picture. It is a one-storied structure with a circular room at each end—suggesting a dumbell. Inside is the usual gaiety of lights of every gambling house. I am told that when play lags in European casinos lights are increased. They stimulate play. The usual feverish crowd, too, was there—eager, taut, astonishingly rude.

My luck of gambling over here is excellent had I the sense to quit. But only once after a winning number did I romp off with my winnings. Tonight I could have paid my boat fare home had I taken my wife's advice. But I became a plunger and all of it vanished with more. Just one of the bright boys who help to put the "dough" in Deauville!

STOCKHOLM — A new royal railway carriage will be built for King Gustaf of Sweden, to be used both at home and abroad. Aside from a bedroom, a salon and a reception room for the king, it will contain three compartments for his entourage and two valets.

000 of these were found to have either mental or physical defects. More than 8,000 were refused passports because of medical reasons. Of the 17,762 who were given passports and who arrived at quarantine, only 23 were sent back because of some medical defect.

If we would give the same attention to private health, we would be wise indeed. Every country that guards its citizens against need-less disease is making the best possible investment.

HEALTH

By Dr. Royal S. Copeland, New York City

Safeguarding Health of Nations
In ancient Venice and other great seaports, a vessel arriving with diseased passengers was detained for a period of 40 days. This practice gave rise to the term "quarantine," which comes from an Italian word "quaranta," meaning "forty."

There are many kinds of quarantine—house quarantine, cattle quarantine, interstate quarantine, etc. All are related to the prevention and spread of disease.

The United States Public Health Service announces that within the past year no infectious diseases were brought into this country. This excellent work on the part of the Immigration service deserves more than passing comment. The health of the nation depends to a great extent upon the thoroughness with which these duties are performed.

Guarding the Ports
Whenever a vessel enters a port of the United States, rigid inquiry is made as to the state of health on board ship. During the past year four vessels arrived at ports of the United States carrying infectious diseases. Smallpox and cerebro spinal meningitis were the diseases. When the ship bearing the passengers came into quarantine, the infected passengers were removed. Those who had been in contact with the disease were detained for observation. In consequence no contagious disease was brought into the country.

In addition to this great work, the Immigration service conducts medical examinations of all persons applying for entrance into the United States. Undesirable emigrants who would be a menace to the health of the nation are thus prevented from entering the country.

Statistics
During 1930, 156,370 persons were examined abroad. More than 20-

Flower of Thorns

By Marie Conway Oemler

"Gosh, you aren't going to use those bellows, are you?"

Sally Rutherford, the last of a proud old southern family, following the ruin and suicide of her grandfather, determines to keep the family mortgage on Oakleigh plantation for her grandmother. A personage, facing the Dixie highway, gives her the idea of starting a hot dog stand. She arranges with a milkman, who says he is Mr. Forman, foreman of the Winstead dairies, to deliver milk. He is really Samuel Forman Winstead, only son of Henry Winstead, town banker and holder of the Oakleigh mortgage. Sam, well educated and traveled, prefers farming to finance. The Rutherford ladies "didn't know" the Winsteads, of carpet-bagging stock, whose estate adjoined Oakleigh. Sally's milkman helps her get the Shack ready for business.

INSTALLMENT 7 SALLY'S SHACK

The old cabin was really more charming than Sally had dared hope when she first visioned it. It was colorful; it was picturesque. She had staked a great deal on it and she had drawn upon Oakleigh generously. The milkman had made and painted the shelves and boxes, and he it was who had filled the latter with fern, adding pots of red geranium for good measure. He had also made and painted the counter for her.

"This place reminds me of the modern girl," he told Sally impulsively, looking about him with dancing eyes. "It mayn't be as pretty as it's painted, but it's certainly painted pretty." And he hummed:

"Little dabs of powder,
Little gobs of paint,
Make a lady's freckles
Look just like they ain't."
"Those zinnias I transplanted,
Outside the window, look to me as if they meant to grow, Miss Sally."
"It was a happy thought, and you're very kind to have taken all that trouble, Mr. Forman."
"Shucks! I'm a neighbor, am I not?"

"A very kind one at that," she admitted. And she added: "When you see your duty as a neighbor you certainly do it."
"I don't look on it as a duty, exactly. I wanted to do it for you. You're handy enough, of course, and you can paint—"

"And make my freckles
Look just like they ain't?"
asked she, with a sudden, irresistible tinkle of laughter.
"I wish you'd laugh often—anyhow when I'm here. It sounds good. You've got a mighty pretty laugh," said he.

But she stood with a stricken face.
"What a terrible thing life is, Mr. Forman," she said in a whisper.
"How hard we are, how forgetful. Just a few months ago I thought I could never laugh again in this world. I came home—and grand-papa—and here I am laughing! Just as though it had never happened." She turned away with quivering lips. Her slight body trembled. She hung her head.

"Stop that! Stop it instantly!" said he imperatively.
Sally wheeled upon him, for the tone had been commanding. He saw the moisture dry in her eyes, the quivering lips steady, the head go up.

"There, that's better," said he with satisfaction. "You're angry. The idea of me talking to you like that! But anything's better for you than getting morbid."

"I do not understand you," said she haughtily.
"No? Well, perhaps I was some what bungling. But I meant what I said about your laughing more than you do. I wish you'd laugh often."

"The way I laugh," said she severely, "is neither here nor there."
"I'd rather hear it here than there. Here is where it ought to be heard, where it'll do the most good."

She was silent, but her expression distressed him.
"Let's have this thing out—between neighbors, so to say, Miss Rutherford. I hate to talk like this, but I've been watching you and I don't like what I see. You haven't been sleeping well, have you?"

"I like to go in during the night and look at grandmamma, to see if she is all right," she evaded.
"Which she is. You go in to look at her because you can't sleep and you're restless and nervous. You haven't much appetite, either, have you?"

"Suppose we change the subject," she suggested crisply.
"I haven't settled it in my mind yet," he said simply. "I've been watching you, Miss Rutherford. You're too pale, you're too thin. You're gallant and plucky, and you work like a Trojan, but you're as nervous as a cat. I want to ask you one thing, Miss Rutherford, as a neighbor—"

"O, if you take that tack you will ask any question you wish to ask."
"I have been told," said he, in a low and gentle voice, "that your grandfather adored you, that you were the darling of his heart—"

"You do not understand," she said quietly, turning tragic eyes upon him. "You mean well, but this thing isn't to be talked about."
"I am not a stranger. I am a neighbor," he told her evenly. "And I've got to talk to you for your own sake and your grandmother's, and your grandfather's. You are the last of the Rutherfords, aren't you?"

"You want to carry on, don't you? No—don't go; stay and listen. Here you are and you're game enough to do this—" He waved his brown hand around the cabin. "All right. Now, you last Rutherford, are you game enough to carry it through, to meet your public with a brave face? To smile? To laugh? It takes more courage to laugh than to cry, Miss Sally. It takes a high heart to look happy!"

"I see that grief—and price—do not go very well with—hot dogs," said she, smiling twistedly.
"But hot dogs go with all the cats that pass your door, lady, and the nibbles for those dogs stay with you," said he reasonably. "Stop being sorry for yourself. Smile, keep busy."
"I am sure you mean well," said she.
"You might be mistaken," said the milkman truculently. "That's twice you've said that to me. The first time I let it go, because I hate to contradict a lady flatly. You're ready to open shop tomorrow, aren't you? Haven't you got the makings of a hot dog handy? With trimmings? Because I'm hungry."
"We have everything ready, Mr. Forman, but Moses isn't here. Moses is to do the actual work for me, you know."
"It isn't a bad idea at all. But suppose Moses isn't here and a customer clamors for his hot dogs, how then? Is he to perish?"
"If it were that important I should attend to his wants myself. I could do it."

"Could you, really? I'm wondering."
She hesitated. She was curiously adverse to waiting on him.
"Are you really hungry?"
"Yes'm, starving."
"I promised them to you," said she gravely. "Very well, Mr. Forman. I will make you some myself. Your taste you won't mind correcting me, I'm sure."

"Believe me, I won't mind telling you what's what," said he promptly. "In some things I can be mannerly and suffer in silence, to spare a lady's feelings. But when it comes right down to my pet snack I speak up like an American citizen."

No tampering with American rights or American hot dogs! Do I light a charcoal fire for you? Gosh, you aren't going to use these bellows, are you?" He pounced upon a heavy old handworked leather bellows with inlaid brass trimmings on mahogany handles.

"I found them in the attic, and I thought they'd be useful. Why?"
"Extravagance! These are for sale, lady. Tell Moses to use a palmleaf fan or some bullrushes, but put these on sale—at a price. Gee, I wish you'd let me ransack that garret!"

"Did you study antiques in that astonishing school of yours?"
"No, ma'am. I just like to read and study a bit. I've got a sort of hankering for those things. They are so beautiful and so genuine!"

When he had the charcoal glowing he went outside and cut a dry stalk from a palmetto bush, and the end of this stalk he sharpened.

"Wienies roast perfectly on the end of a palmetto stake over the fire," he told her.

"I think so myself," she agreed. "But it isn't businesslike, is it?"
"Well, maybe not. But it's nice," he reflected. The smell of roasting wienies, a hungry smell, spread through the room. "Now, where's the trimmings?"

"But I thought I was to make them."
"I'll take the will for the deed this time. Besides, I want to show you just how I like them," he said imperiously. "I hope you've been paying strict attention. Mustard, please. Sauerkraut. Ketchup. Want sauerkraut in yours?"

"I have eaten one," said she doubtfully.
"Eat two today. You'll sell plenty tomorrow."

"I hope so," said she.
He got a quart bottle of milk. Then he fixed two places at the table, poured out a full glass of milk, and put two of the hot dogs on her plate, keeping two for himself.

"Now you sit down and eat," said he.

VIRGINIA CITY — A striking

relic of the old Comstock days was unearthed here by Albert Dressler, of Berkeley, a souvenir hunter, when he found an imitation glass cigar five feet long that was used to advertise a famous cigar store 50 years ago. The device, forerunner of modern electric signs, was lighted with gas and is constructed of 15,000 to 20,000 glass prisms.

"TOASTING" expels

SHEEP-DIP BASE naturally

(Black, biting, harsh irritant chemicals)

present in every tobacco leaf

"They're out—so they can't be in!"

Every LUCKY STRIKE is made of the finest tobacco leaves the world can offer—the finest from Turkey—the finest from Kentucky, Tennessee, Virginia, Georgia and the Carolinas—the Cream of many Crops throughout the world. But all tobacco leaves, regardless of price and kind, as nature produces them, contain harsh irritants. LUCKY STRIKE'S exclusive "TOASTING" Process—a process that mellows, that purifies, that includes the use of the modern Ultra Violet Ray—expels certain harsh irritants naturally present in every tobacco leaf. We sell these expelled irritants to manufacturers of chemical compounds, who use them as a base in making sheep-dip*, as well as a powerful spraying solution for fruits, flowers and shrubs—enough to permit the daily dipping of over 50,000 sheep or the daily spraying of many thousands of trees. Thus, you are sure these irritants, naturally present in all tobacco leaves, are not in your LUCKY STRIKE. "They're out—so they can't be in!" No wonder LUCKIES are always kind to your throat.

like Stalin, made of steel, literally, as well as by name.

If you have tears to shed, save them for stockbrokers. In the whole week just passed Wall Street bought and sold only 4,375,819 shares of stock, and in the "happy days" when "the limit" was the giant nebula, 100,000,000 light years distant, brokers sold 6,000,000 shares in one day and were expecting the "10,000,000-share day" at any moment.

Read Dante's description of Paolo and Francesca, suffering together in hell, think about the pleasant days gone by. That's the only way you can know how the Wall Street broker feels.

The government says the water in the Mississippi has not been so low in years. The Mississippi ought to see Wall Street. Ninety per cent of the water is missing there.

In the opening of cotton dealings yesterday, the price fell $7.50 a bale, discouraged by news that we have a gigantic crop. Cotton sold as low as 6.70 cents a pound.

Cotton has one price all over the world, so our gigantic crop means not only misfortune for cotton growers in the United States, but for cotton growers along the Nile, in Southern Russia, everywhere.

Colonel Lindbergh, far away at Point Barrow, Alaska, where a big polar bear recently fell through the skylight of a small house on to the dining table, around which the family sat, is getting a new view of life. A sun that shines at midnight, a night that lasts for months, ice that never melts, all interesting to the young air king.

Lindbergh says the next five years will show a great increase in airplane efficiency and "we have yet to reach a standard type."

We have, indeed. That is true as though Christopher Columbus had said it of one of his little boats.

Good news for the enterprising city of Buffalo, N. Y. It stands first among grain ports of the United States, according to the shipping board reports, and is also the country's and the world's largest flour-milling center. In water-borne freight it is second only to Duluth.

Buffalo is destined to be much greater, more prosperous. Buy yourself a good corner there, while land is cheap.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Warren and family, Mrs. Ella Warren and Mrs. Kate Merritt of Salem, left Monday morning on a trip to Niagara Falls and other points.

LaVone Libert of West State st. spent the weekend in New Waterford, the guest of Ruth, Alice and Helen White, formerly of this city.

Mrs. Nellie Logue and son Edwin of Pittsburgh visited here Saturday with Mr. and Mrs. John Cape, East State st. and Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Greenamyer, Aetna st.

A. H. Schropp and daughter, Miss Sara Schropp, have returned from a motor trip to Philadelphia, Harrisburg, Pa., and other eastern points.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Patterson of Salem attended the Grouner reunion Sunday at Hammond park, Wellsville.

Mrs. Harry McConner of East Liverpool is the guest of her daughter, Mrs. R. E. Knepper, South Lundy ave.

Mrs. D. E. Wolfgang of Columbiana spent Tuesday here with relatives.

Mrs. Fred Young of Cleveland is spending a few days with Mrs. Dola Pascola, North Lincoln ave.

before stopping, led to the supposition they were within, at the most, an hour's flight of this Bering sea port. Efforts were being made by the radio station here to make contact with the plane again.

Although the message telling of the landing did not give reasons, it was believed for, which started to settle here within two hours after the couple left Point Barrow, had extended up the coast and that the flying colonel would take chances on making a blind landing here.

Because of the short nights of this near-Arctic region it was believed the Lindberghs would proceed down the coast within three or four hours, provided the fog did not become so dense as to be unsafe for even daylight flying.

An hour after the colonel lifted his trim pontooned ship off the lagoon at Point Barrow, where the famous couple had been the center of all attention of the several hundred Eskimes and eight whites, they were reported over the coast guard cutter Northland at Wainwright, 80 miles from Barrow.

Nome Disappointed

It was a disappointed crowd of Nomeites that turned from the beach here, where practically the entire population of the town had been waiting for almost two hours, when word was received the flying vacationists would not arrive until later today.

Preparations had been made for the landing and flares and huge piles of driftwood and old lumber were all ready to be lighted.

This is the second for the Lindberghs have encountered since arriving in Alaskan territory. While flying from Alakavik, N. W. T., Saturday, they ran into a bank east of Point Barrow, but flew around it and landed in clear weather at their first Alaskan stop.

MEMPHIS—Booth Phelps, 23, 63 pounds, who stopped off here while enroute to Louisville to "be a jockey" was taken for his first ride when a "friend" slugged and robbed him.

They Gave Up Son; Want Him Back, but Ohio Court Says No

COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 11.—Sharply reprimanding parents who refuse to abandon "worldly habits and entertainments and devote their time to the care and rearing of their babies," Domestic Relations Judge E. V. Mahaffey today had ruled that a five-year-old boy shall not be returned to his father and mother, a Gallon couple.

Judge Mahaffey flatly refused to take Donald G. Carroll, 5, from the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Duval, where he has lived for two years, and return him to his mother, Mrs. Marie Collins Carroll of Gallon, who filed a writ of habeas corpus plea here to obtain custody of the child.

"The parents," Judge Mahaffey declared in his decision, "are seeking to regain custody and possession of the child after they gave it away when only two months old and it now is five, and they have not seen it or attempted to see it since they gave it away, save two or three times."

"As soon as they could find some one willing to adopt it, they gave their consent and then never again attempted to show any interest in the child thereafter," the judge added. When the father was earning $5 a day, both parents claimed they could not care for the child, he said.

CINCINNATI, Aug. 11.—The prospects were that Hamilton county today would have the dull primary election in many years. John B. Bootleggers Help City's Finances GALESBURG, Ill., Aug. 11.—Galesburg's bootleggers are a boon to the police department.

When Mayor Joe E. Anderson put into effect the eight hour day for the police last spring, he said he expected to meet the extra $9,000 cost in payrolls by fines collected.

A third of the amount has been collected in the last four months, and the latest contribution was $500 in fines assessed against "Shorty" Dobson, W. E. Weigand, Les Wolf, Earl Douglas and C. B. Swingle, after week-end raids on speakeasias.

SPORT BRIEFS

Has Varied Career
SAYRE, PA.—George Norton, a local semi-professional baseball player, wore so many different uniforms in one week recently that he was never certain where he was to play the next day.

He started the week by playing shortstop with the Binghamton team in the New York-Pennsylvania League, to play a vacancy created by an injury. Two days later he was at the same position for the Towanda team. The fourth day his services were required by the Ithaca team.

Log Canoe In Regatta
CHESTERTOWN, Md.—The "Island Blossom", a log canoe which has been sailing over the waters of Chesapeake Bay for nearly 100 years, will be among the entrants in the third annual Chester river regatta at Chestertown, Md., Aug. 21-22. The log sailing canoes will compete in a special race for the John H. Chambers cup.

KIWANIANS LOSE TO LEADERS IN ONE-SIDED TILT

Hardware Advances Into Second Place; Defeats Pottery Outfit, 6-2

ERRORS MAR BOTH GAMES AT PARK

Total of 26 Misplays Are Registered; Shinn, Bard Get Poor Support

Mushballers from the Mullins Manufacturing corporation, playing under the guise of the plant's Foremen's club, appeared assured of first place in the Salem Softball league for at least the remainder of the week.

Mullins Wallops Kiwanis
The body-makers slapped out 16 hits and registered a decisive 14-3 victory over the Kiwanis club team in a wild and undramatic affair at Centennial park field Monday, increasing their hold on first place to a full game.

While Mullins was ganging "Lefty" Bard, Kiwanis hurler, for its easy decision, its closest rivals for the lead, the Salem China company, blew up completely to allow the Salem Hardware to annex a 6-2 decision in another contest marred by plenty of errors.

Twenty-six misplays were made in the two games, nine by Kiwanians, eight by Mullins, five by toe Potters and three by the Hardware. Runs were passed out as gifts in both contests, pitchers, especially Bard and Arthur Shinn, being given erratic support.

Hardware Wins, 6-2
The Hardware stepped into second place in league standings, dropping the Pottery into a tie for third with the Ohio Edison. Watkins toiled for Mullins with Early breezing them through for the Hardware.

Early proved his ranking as one of the league's best slabsters, whiffing seven ware-makers in five frames.

Mike Hall's Career Halted by Injury

CHICAGO, Aug. 11.—Mike Hall, winner of the $100,000 Agua Caliente handicap last March, probably will do no more racing.

R. M. Eastman, Chicago, owner of the seven-year-old roiler, has decided to retire his star unless ailing tendons improve. Mike Hall was forced to pass up the $25,000 added Hawthorne handicap last Saturday because of injuries. He has not raced in form since winning the big purse in Mexico.

Refuses Big Offer For Burning Blaze

CHICAGO, Aug. 11.—Richard and Patrick Nash, owners of the Valley Lake stable, have refused an offer of $50,000 for their two-year-old colt, Burning Blaze. Burning Blaze became one of the choice juveniles of the season when he conquered the best two year old of the east, the $40,000 post and paddock stake at Arlington park.

PIRATES FIGHT FOR PLACE IN FIRST DIVISION

Pittsburghers Win Over Cubs; Spencer Hurls Team to Victory

(By Associated Press)
The Pittsburgh Pirates have no hope of winning a National league pennant just at present but they evidently still are of the opinion that they can smash their way into the first division before the curtain falls for the season.

Succeeded in Comeback
After three months of floundering around while their pitchers tried to find their effectiveness and their batmen searched vainly for their batting eyes, the Pirates pulled themselves together just when it looked like they were going to fall right out of the league.

The insertion of Howard Grosskins, at second base, the return to hitting form of Paul Waner and the overnight development of Glenn Spencer into a starting pitcher who could win were three primary causes for the Pirates' spurt since July.

Spencer Hurls Victory
Yesterday with Spencer working on the mound, the Pirates nosed out the Chicago Cubs, 4-3, scoring the tying run in the eighth inning and the winning run in the ninth when Lloyd Waner walked and came home on a double by Pie Traynor.

The defeat dropped the Cubs from a virtual tie with the second place New York Giants to a position half a game removed from the runner-up rung.

The Pirate-Cub game was the only one on the major league schedule yesterday as both leagues prepared for inter-sectional warfare starting today.

Plan Night Tourney
PETSKEY, MICH.—A night time outdoor tennis tournament will be staged here Aug. 17-22, under the auspices of the chamber of commerce. It is hoped to make the tournament an annual affair.

It is open to all amateurs. Games will be played on concrete courts under giant floodlights.

Organization Of Midget Grid League Planned Next Season

Organization of an Ohio Midget Football league will be planned at a meeting of representatives of teams from six Ohio cities at the Hotel Portage, Akron, Wednesday night. Russell Stallsmith of Salem, will attend the meeting.

Stallsmith has been attempting to interest Salem organizations in the association with hopes of entering a juvenile grid aggregation of this city in the competition. Other teams have already been entered from Cleveland, Akron, Kent, Youngstown, Canton and Cuyahoga Falls.

In a letter received from Paul P. Sheeks of Akron, Stallsmith was informed that a Salem entry will be received if arrangements here are completed. Rules of the league stipulates that teams must be composed of boys not more than 16 years of age and weighing not more than 116 pounds.

Each city is required to post $100 forfeit for good faith in fulfilling contracts and obligations in the association.

Stallsmith last year managed and coached a team of Salem youngsters that completed a successful season.

SCHAAF BATTLES SNYDER TONIGHT

Young Slugger Expected To Prove Worth As Heavyweight In Bout; Picks Tough Opponent

BOSTON, Aug. 11.—Ernie SchAAF, heavyweight of Wrentham, Mass., expects to prove in his 10-round battle with Angus Snyder of Dodge City, Kans., tonight that his two quick knockouts of Pim Maloney were no flukes.

The rangy blonde who strafe the Boston strong boy into defeat twice in impressive fashion is thought to have picked a rough and rugged opponent, however, in Snyder, a former Canadian woodsman with a record that shows punching power.

300 Young Golfers In Chicago Event

CHICAGO, Aug. 11.—A field of nearly 300 golfers between the ages of 16 and 19, were at the Midwestern Country Club today for the qualifying round of the seventh annual western junior championship tournament.

The tournament will be without a defending champion since Chuck Collins of St. Louis, the 1930 winner, has passed the age limit.

Stratton to Meet Champion Thursday

Gus Kallio of Finland, middleweight wrestling champion of the world, grapples with Walter "Buck" Stratton of Leetonia in the main bout of an all-star show staged by Al Zill at Idora park, Youngstown, Thursday night.

The champion opposes the Leetonia star for best two out of three falls with one-hour limit. Kallio is heavy favorite over Stratton.

Elmer Guthrie who looked good last week in defeating Jack Nelson, battles Paul Orth of Massillon in the semifinal. This is also billed for an hour limit, best two out of three flops.

The first feature brings Tezura Nogami, Japanese star, against Jim Merrill of Armenia, in a one fall, 30-minute limit match.

ARMED FORCES RULE IN CUBA

President Gerardo Machado Suspends Constitutional Privileges

(By Associated Press)

HAVANA, Aug. 11.—All Cuba was in the grip of martial law today, and strict censorship prevailed as the government struggled to put down a revolutionary movement which was spreading throughout the island.

President Gerardo Machado, acting on the authority granted him by congress, suspended constitutional privileges in all the provinces, signing a decree which recognized that the situation was serious.

Hostile Elements Active
"Political elements hostile to the government, in accord with enemies of the present social system," he said, "have lent greater activity to their campaign against the public peace, realizing in various sections acts of rebellion of armed forces in frank revolutionary attitude."

A clash between government troops and rebels was reported in Havana, where the Loyalists had surrounded a band of insurgents and were preparing to attack.

Nine revolutionists and one rural guard officer were believed to have been killed and six others wounded in a sharp engagement in Guanabagosa last night. Another skirmish took place at San Nicholas where federal forces captured five prisoners and wounded one.

Former President Mario G. Menocal, with two of his aides, was reported to have landed on the coast of Oriente province, long a hotbed of intrigue, with the intention of assuming leadership of the insurgent forces.

Call For Strike
A manifesto, purporting to come from Menocal, was distributed in Havana. It called on all Cubans to join in striking "one blow of strength, magnitude and swiftness" to unseat the Machado regime, which was denounced in scathing terms.

The cruiser Cuba, previously reported to have gone over to the rebels, returned from coast guard duty and anchored in the harbor. The cruisers Baire and 24 of February, also said to have deserted, were described by the government as cruising off the coast.

Killed In Crash

MOVIES

TODAY'S FEATURES

"Dirigible" starring Jack Holt, Fay Wray, and Ralph Graves plays for the last times today at the State theater. Filled with the highlights of romance, adventure and action "Dirigible" is a great picture, built on a gigantic scale. It shows a colorful Navy ball with music and laughter, and it shows the barren wastes of the South Pole where four men battle for their lives. The actors are all splendid, the action fast moving and the human interest appealing.

"THE SECRET CALL"

"The Secret Call" with Richard Arlen and Peggy Shannon, the Clara Bow successor, in the featured roles completes its two-day run at the Grand theater today. It is a tense drama of big city politics that at the same time is clever and interesting and with a romance between Arlen and Miss Shannon intermingling with the political events.

COMING ATTRACTIONS

"A Woman of Experience" starring Helen Twelvetrees will be the attraction Wednesday at the State theater.

The story is about a Viennese woman of uncertain reputation, known as Elsa, who is engaged by the government to get some information from an officer, Von Lichtenstein. Her one chance is to pretend to be in love with him. Complications arise when she really falls in love with young Karl Ruyli.

Realizing her present disagreeable duty as the spy, she writes Karl a note telling him of another love.

In the meantime, she has tried to trap Von Lichtenstein as he is about to escape. Too quick for her, he seizes the gun she has drawn and shoots her. Karl comes to her when she is ill, still wanting to marry her. His mother tells Elsa she will reveal the story of her past to Karl if she persists in seeing him. But when Elsa replies she has only six months to live the mother gives her consent to the marriage.

"DADDY LONG LEGS"

"Daddy Long Legs" is brought to the Grand theater screen Wednesday by popular demand, in a return engagement of two days.

It marks the first time that Janet Gaynor and Warner Baxter have been co-starred and they are ideally picked for their parts.

The story is so well known as scarcely to need repetition here, but the tale of the orphan girl whom a sympathetic trustee sends to college, only to find himself falling in love with her, has never been more deftly and charmingly told.

"Judy Abbott" in her progress from gingham and pigtail to chiffon and permanents is an absolutely ideal part for the wisful charm of Janet Gaynor. Had Jean Webster written the play especially for her, it could not have been better suited to Miss Gaynor's talents.

Baxter, in the title role, is splendid as the cynical, but lonely bachelor who is surprised to find himself falling in love with his ward. Una Merkel scores another hit as Miss Gaynor's delightfully erratic room-mate and young John Arledge, a new film find, turns in a highly promising portrayal of Baxter's rival.

Reading by Tongue Wins $2,000 Prize

KANSAS CITY, Aug. 11.—William McPherson, blind and handicapped, learned to read the Bible by touching his tongue to raised letters.

His feat may bring him $1,000 from the Rev. D. T. Lauderdale, of Lexington, Va., who submitted McPherson's tongue-reading accomplishment in a contest and thereby won a prize of $2,000.

The Kansas City Star said today the contest manager had informed the winner would divide the prize with the afflicted Scot.

McPherson said a premature dynamite explosion crippled him in 1906 but he was unwilling to forego comfort of the Bible.

NEW YEAR GIFT FOR TREASURIES

Such Is Provided When Assembly Boosted Automobile Taxes

Editor's Note: This is the first of a series of articles by International News Service, explaining the new taxation laws adopted by the Ohio 89th general assembly.

(By International News Service)
A New Year's gift for county treasuries, which are often empty at the start of the calendar year, was provided when the 89th general assembly boosted automobile license taxes and removed motor vehicles from the personal property tax duplicate.

On Jan. 1, or a few days later, county treasuries will be paid their share of motor vehicle license money collected during December under the plan being worked out by State Commissioner of Motor Vehicles Chalmers R. Wilson.

To teach employees in his department to handle the money swiftly and to arrange for distribution at once, Commissioner Wilson is planning a "taxation school," he said.

Under the old plan the automobile license money was not distributed for several weeks, according to Wilson.

The fact that motor vehicle license fees were almost doubled means that each county will get approximately twice as much as it received under the old law.

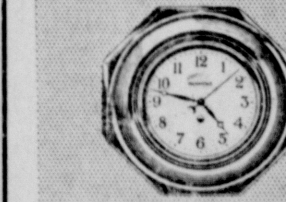

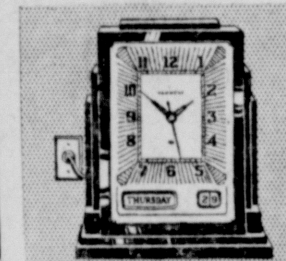

Because automobile and truck owners buy 80 per cent of their tags during the first two months the tags are on sale—December and January—most of the money will be available at the start of the year, when treasuries are almost depleted and facing calls from subdivisions for advances, it was said. A total of almost $24,000,000 is expected to be collected.
